Search goes on

Researchers gather at Macquarie University this week to discuss what the next generation of search tools will look like. Brett Poole, the head of search at Yahoo!7, will give the keynote, a team from the Centre for Health Informatics at the University of NSW will discuss their work on the impact of search technologies on clinical care. And Willem-Jan Jansen of Fairfax Digital will discuss the controversial world of search-engine optimisation. More details are available at hcsnet.edu.au/workshops/next-gen-search07.
